LYNN NEWS: SATURDAY 2 SEPTEMBER 1911-2

The M.C.C. team, which visited the district last week, won each of the matches played, overcoming West Norfolk at Lynn, Mid Norfolk at Dereham, Overstrand and Yarmouth and District. Lieut. Abercrombie, a representative of the navy, followed up his success at Lynn by scoring 73 not out against Overstrand, in which match Munds, the Kent second reserve wicket-keeper, made 95. Against Yarmouth he made 14 and 54 not out, this, it is stated, bringing his total for the M.C.C. this season to 2,000 runs. Mr. Falcon has been at the top of his form with the ball and in three matches took 20 wickets for 103 runs, including seven for 3 runs against Mid Norfolk. Overstrand did well with the bat, W. C. Morgan making 54 by good, free cricket, his driving being a feature.

West Norfolk, who were very heavily defeated by Hunstanton at Hillington a week or so ago, did much better in the return game, though again losing. Batting first, they made 155. Stevens, the Lynn man, hit hard for 52, that score being easily the highest for his side. "Extras" came second with 32. Hunstanton started very badly against the bowling of Stevens and Partridge, and six wickets were down for 25, but eventually Barrett and Durrant altered the situation and carried the score to 103 before Barrett was bowled for 44. C. E. Durrant played a polished innings for 62 not out, George Gemmell being also nicely set when stumps were drawn; he had made 37 not out. There was an exciting finish and Gemmell made the winning hit almost on the stroke of time, Hunstanton winning by three wickets. It is worthy of note that for the third time this season J. Murray was clean bowled by Stevens for a small total.

During the Spalding cricket season J. N. Worman, the headmaster of Donington school, Lincs., and formerly a master at the King Edward VII. Grammar School at Lynn, secured the second highest number of runs, viz., 293. Although he secured more runs than in 1910, his average has dropped from 42.25 to 29. He has taken the largest number of wickets, 27, showing an average of 14.40 per wicket, and ties with Cooke for the most catches. Worman has been the mainstay of the side. Some critics said that Norfolk had had the best out of Worman, but those privileged people who saw him scoring runs at Lincoln in the Staffordshire match hold that there is something left for Lincolnshire still. E. F. Cooke has secured the biggest total of runs for Spalding, viz., 383, an average of 33.89. C. C. Harrison, who has been playing a good deal in the Hunstanton district of late, has scored only 78 in five innings for Spalding; last year he averaged 43.25 for the same number of innings.
