Suffolk 1st innings

(a) FOW 1-14/20? I would think 14 is probable because Wood only scored 3 before he was out therefore for the score to be 20 there must be at least 5 extras. Willing to accept 1-14

FOW 1-14 ✓

Suffolk 2nd innings

(a) Openers EADT states "EP Wood & Penfold went in"
EDP states "Watson & Lybra bowling to Wood & Penfold"

Wood FP (1) ✓
Penfold (2) ✓
Watson (3) ✓

(b) Norfolk bowling The EADT & CR do not give bowling analysis. Willing to accept EDP analysis as printed. Extras total over 11-1 & 11-2.

Analysis as printed ✓

Norfolk bowling Suffolk 1st innings

(a) Watson 14 78/79 runs conceded. I think we should accept that which agrees unless Norfolk averages prove otherwise

Watson 79 runs ✓ conceded.

Norfolk 2nd innings

(a) Batting order

(i) Openers It is possible that when 1st wk fell at 6, batsmen were at their original ends because an even number of runs had been scored. If this is so Thurgas was (2) because Colbold bowled (2). It then follows Foregroun was (1)

Foregroun (1) ✓
Thurgas (2) ✓

(ii) Ames & Birkbeck.

EADT refers to "Ames & Birkbeck played out time"
EDP "Birkbeck & Ames stayed off further disasters"
I would choose Ames (5) & Birkbeck (6) but would accept S. Hurst's notes

Ames (5) ✓
Birkbeck (6) ✓

I agree rest of the order

THE BURY ST EDMUNDS MATCH

LAST YEAR'S CHAMPIONS DEFEATED BY THIS YEAR'S

By Our Special Correspondent

At Bury St. Edmunds on Saturday Suffolk gained a very decisive and even test by some wickets, making the victory with a few of the season. Although Suffolk's loss of last year was considered anything great on the first day the wicket being quite easy Norfolk at one time had lost six wickets for 13 runs, and it was only due to the fine batting of E. J. Fulcher that they were able to reach a three figure total. The Suffolk captain made them follow on and at the close of play on Friday, with four wickets down they still required 11 runs to avoid a single innings defeat. G. W. Birkbeck and S. S. Ames played capital cricket on the resumption on Saturday morning, but after the latter was dismissed the rest of the side, with the exception of Birkbeck, were always in difficulties, and the home county gained a crushing victory before lunch. J. F. Ireland and P. W. Cobbold shared the attack at the commencement on Saturday morning, and for a time both batsmen scored freely, most of the runs being scored to the off. So well did the pair bat that Penfold came on for "P.W." and after the partnership had yielded 61 runs, of which 48 were obtained on Saturday morning, in thirty minutes, the Bury pro. bowled Ames. G. A. Stevens, who has done yeoman service for Norfolk in his time, followed, and scored a single off Penfold's sixth ball of the over. The first ball he received from Ireland, however, was fatal, and twice in the match he was sent back by the very first ball sent down by the Cambridge University captain. With the exception of Fulcher, the batting of last year's champions was in the main deplorable, and their collapse this year has been inexplicable. Gibson, who has a very badly injured hand, pluckily went in to bat, but the whole side were dismissed for 200 runs, leaving Suffolk 55 runs to get to win. J. F. Ireland again bowled finely, and on Saturday morning took five wickets for 12 runs, his record for the match being 13 for 28. Both as a bowler and a batsman, Ireland is a tower of strength to Suffolk, and if he could play in all the matches there is no doubt Suffolk would stand a great chance to the championship. If Ireland had only been at Bishop Stortford the result might have been very different, and there is no doubt that in his absence Suffolk have not a fast bowler at their command. Left 55 to get to win, F. P. Wood and Penfold went in, Watson and Gibson sharing the attack. Both batsmen hit freely, but the Bury pro was bowled when he had made 10. A. K. Watson then joined Wood, and both playing capital cricket, had no difficulty in knocking off the runs. It was a very fine victory, and was received with loud applause from the spectators.

SUFFOLK v NORFOLK
 W BURY ST EDMUNDS
 ~ 1911 AUG 4.5

the somewhat bold policy of making Norfolk, who was 145 behind, follow on. They did much better than was anticipated. E. J. Fulcher again playing a sparkling innings, and at the drawing of stumps were 15 behind with six wickets in hand. However, Suffolk should be safe to-day, although in cricket one never knows.

P. W. Wood opened for Suffolk, to the bowling of Gibson and Watson. Penfold was misgled in the slips by Gibson when he had made 6, and with the total at 20 the Bury Pro. was caught by Ames off Watson. A. K. Watson joined Wood, and the Ipswich School Headmaster drove Watson nicely to the screen at the Cemetery end. P. P. Wood left at 30, being caught at cover by Cozens-Hardy, off Gibson. J. F. Ireland next became associated with Watson. The Cambridge University captain opened very quickly, and before he had scored survived a condition appeal for leg before to Fulcher, who had succeeded Watson. The wicket was quite easy, and the start was by no means a good one for the home county. A. K. Watson, however, always seemed confident, and made some nice shots on both sides of the wicket. With Ireland's assistance it was confidently expected that Suffolk's early misfortunes would be retrieved, but it proved a barren hope for the Light Blue skipper, who never seemed at home, put his leg in front of one from Gibson before he had scored, the third wicket falling at 50. Capt. P. Wilson was the new comer, and with Watson, who was playing very bright cricket, put on runs steadily, and the score board began to assume a much more flattering appearance. The pair brought in a magnificent innings for Fulcher, whilst Thursby relieved Gibson at the town end. With the total at 89 a most respectable in-coming stand was made, and both batsmen finding themselves at the same end. It was difficult to tell whose fault it was, but it was a hopeless muddle, and was very bad luck on Suffolk, the men appearing well set at the time. Watson endeavoured to get back, and appealed when four yards from the crease, as it certainly appeared, as if the wicket was broken before Thursby got the ball in his hands. Brushing the ball off with his arm, the six pins decided against the batsmen, however, at the time of his unfortunate dismissal Watson had made 40 by capital cricket, and his innings was an invaluable one to the side, coming as it did at a time when things were looking very black for Suffolk. S. G. Bennett next, partnered Capt. Wilson, and the pair saw the 100 up. The new comer opened cautiously, and scored two sweet shots for 4 off Ireland, and square out to the pavilion rails and a 4 to leg. Capt. Wilson, too, was batting in his old form, and completed his 50 with a lovely drive to the screen at the town end. Off Birkbeck Lanchester was taken with the score standing at 145 for 4 wickets, Capt. Wilson being not out 65, and S. G. Bennett not out 21.

Watson and Gibson were the bowlers after lunch. Capt. Wilson drove Watson grandly to the boundary, and made two other nice shots off Gibson. He was then caught by Cozens-Hardy off Gibson, the fifth wicket falling at 156, of which the outgoing batsman had made 74 by very stylish cricket. With Bennett, he helped to put on a very useful partnership, which was a very useful one. P. W. Cobbold had a short life, but a merry one, being bowled by Gibson at 166. With a side particularly strong in batting, six wickets being down for 166 was by no means wood enough. F. L. Titchmarsh bowled Bennett, and the pair batted extremely well. It was quite a treat to watch the manner in which they ran between the wickets. So many runs are often thrown away by slackness in this respect, but they seemed to perfectly understand each other, and never wasted a run. The 200 went up, and almost immediately after Bennett played on to Ames. He had played capital cricket, and although never taking undue risks, never let an opportunity of scoring pass. Titchmarsh opened confidently, and scored with ease all round the wicket. He has not "got going" for the county before, but on this occasion seems quite at home. When at the same score as Bennett, however, he was caught at the wicket, the total standing at 241. P. P. Cornell turned Gibson nicely to leg for 4, but Wilson then put up one to point, and the innings closed for 246. Gibson took four wickets for 57, and E. J. Fulcher three for 45.

R. W. Thurgar and G. Williams started for Norfolk, to the bowling of J. F. Ireland and P. W. Cobbold. The start was most sensational, for Ireland clean bowled Thurgar and G. A. Stevens, who succeeded him, with his third and fourth balls of the first over, two wickets being down without a run scored. Birkbeck filled the vacancy, but with only nine runs on the board Williams touched a short pitched one from Ireland, and was out to a capital catch in the slips by S. G. Bennett. The tale of disaster continued, for Cobbold clean bowled Birkbeck in the next over, the total still standing at 9, of which the outgoing batsman had made the lot. The collapse of the Norfolk men was extraordinary. W. Thursby hit Ireland for 13, but Cobbold then bowled Cozens-Hardy for 13. C. J. H. Treglowan joined Thursby, but without another run added the latter was bowled by Ireland. E. J. Fulcher got Ireland away for 4—a nice straight drive, whilst Treglowan also put the Light Blue skipper nicely to leg for 4. Fulcher hit out at Ireland with great success, hitting 19 off him in one over, including a big drive for 6 out of the ground at the Town end. The pair rapidly retrieved the bad start, and Fulcher was especially severe on Ireland, who gave way to Penfold. Fulcher continued to hit with great freedom, and with Treglowan put on 66 runs before he was out to a well-judged catch by Luskip on the boundary. It was a very good catch, as the fieldman had the sun bang in his eyes. Fulcher obtained his 48 runs in a marvellously short space of time, and his hits included two 6's and six 4's. It was a specially meritorious performance, coming at a time when wickets were falling like chaff. S. S. Ames joined Treglowan, and played steady cricket, allowing his partner to do most of the scoring. With the score at 98 Ireland went on again vice Penfold, and was immediately successful, clean bowling Ames with his first ball, and getting Gibson caught before he had scored. Watson was the last man, and sent up the 100 with a out for 2 off Ireland. The next ball, however, clean bowled the Norfolk pro, and the visitors were all dismissed for exactly 100, Treglowan being not out for a well played 19. J. F. Ireland took seven wickets for 46 runs, Cobbold two for 21, and Penfold one for 24.

Norfolk followed on, and Treglowan and Thurgar faced the bowling of Cobbold and Ireland. With only six runs scored Thurgar was low to P. W. Wood on Fulcher joining. Treglowan runs came again, the new-comer as in the previous innings, hitting with great power and judgment. Penfold succeeded Ireland, and with the third ball of his second over effected a separation. Treglowan being well held by Bennett at point. Thursby next joined Fulcher, and the latter treated the spectators to some fine hitting. He trounced all the bowling skills, and helped himself to two 6's, one off Cobbold and one off the Bury pro. So well did he hit that the 100 appeared in 22 minutes. With the score at 111 Fulcher struck one from T. W. H. Wilson, and was caught by Luskip. He had made 76 out of 106 in thirty-eight minutes. It was a lovely knock, and he was loudly applauded on returning to the pavilion. Although he got them up dangerously on occasions, the only chance he gave was to Titchmarsh, the long ball, but the fieldman failed to accept it. At 123 Ireland sent Thursby's leg stump flying, the outgoing batsman having collected 13 of the best. Ames and Birkbeck played out time, and Norfolk are now 15 behind on the first innings with six wickets in hand.

SENSATIONAL BOWLING BY IRELAND AND COBBOLD.
 (From our Special Correspondent).
 For this match, which commenced against Norfolk at Bury St. Edmund's on Friday, Suffolk had their strongest side out so far this season. J. F. Ireland, A. K. Watson, and Capt. P. Wilson all coming into the team. Winning the toss Suffolk had the advantage of having first knock on an easy wicket, but the first few batsmen fared very indifferently. Thanks to fine batting by A. K. Watson, Capt. Wilson, S. G. Bennett, and F. L. Titchmarsh, Suffolk ran up the respectable score of 246. There was a most remarkable collapse of the Norfolk batsmen, P. W. Cobbold and J. F. Ireland bowling with such sensational success that at one time that county's batsmen had only 97 runs. E. J. Fulcher and C. J. H. Treglowan then came to the rescue, however, and Norfolk were just able to scrape together 100 runs. The Suffolk Captain evidently thinking that the light would not be of the best towards the close, decided on Club Cricket.

One of the largest individual innings of the present season is the 268 not out made by H. Harrison on the 2nd inst. for Broughton Wednesday against Swinton and Pendlebury on the Clifton ground. He hit four 6's and fifty-five 4's, and contributed his runs to a total of 363 for three wickets. Swinton and Pendlebury were all out for 101.

Lord Harris, playing for Band of Brothers v. Royal Artillery, at Woolwich on Friday and Saturday, scored 31 not out in his first innings and 76 in his second. He was the heaviest run-getter for either side, and had a great deal to do with the B. B.'s success by three wickets.

Some fast run-getting was recorded in Saturday's match between Dulwich and Charlton Park on the latter's ground. The Park, for whom William McCaulis made 55 not out, declared with eight wickets down for 217, and then saw Dulwich run up 231 for four in 95 minutes. S. J. Goodall, going in first, scored 129 and carried out his bat.

The Beddington C.C., whose Week concluded on Saturday last, has for several years been recognized as one of the strongest in Surrey. The date of its formation is uncertain, but it is believed that it was evolved from a club formed by the choristers of Beddington Church. At that time—about fifty years ago—the Rector of Beddington was Canon Bridges, a great enthusiast of the game, and the father of Mr. J. H. Bridges, who was for four years in the Winchester Eleven, and is the President of the Club. The early records of the Beddington C.C. have not been preserved, and the oldest score available seems to be of the match against West Kent at Chislehurst in August, 1863—a game, curiously enough, not mentioned by Mr. Philip Norman in his Annals of the West Kent C.C. It is not surprising to find that Beddington were defeated on that occasion, for among their opponents were several Normans and Lubbocks, Herbert Jenner and the Hon. Spencer Ponsonby. The home of the Beddington Club has always been Beddington Park, thanks to the generosity first of Canon Bridges and, afterwards, of his son, Mr. J. H. Bridges. It was there that, in 1876, was played a match which is often referred to by old players. It was against Marlborough Nomads, and Beddington stayed at the wickets the whole of the day, scoring 586 for nine wickets—a very large total in those times. Many well-known men appeared for Beddington that day, among them being F. H. Biry (68), the late H. R. Webbe (28), Vernon Royle (136), J. H. Bridges (51), W. Lindsay (116), H. A. Hodgson (45 not out), the present Rector and for several seasons captain of the club, and the Rev. R. E. Lee, whose lobs frequently played havoc among opposing batsmen. Mr. Bridges led the side for a dozen years and Mr. Hodgson for an even longer period. The present captain is Mr. L. W. S. Rostron, another Old Wykehamist, who was a contemporary of Mr. H. D. G. Leveson-Gower. Undoubtedly the best-known cricketer the club has produced is Robert Henderson, who played for Surrey for many seasons and has been for more than thirty years a member of the Beddington Church Choir, but there have also been other players—such as the brothers Gilbert and Wilfred Reay—who needed only experience of first-class cricket to make a name for themselves.

A remarkable performance has been accomplished by J. C. Davies, a member of the Towyn School team. Playing against Aberystwyth, Davies dismissed the first four batsmen for a few runs, and later, in one over, took the remaining six wickets with consecutive balls, thus securing all ten in the innings. He is the son of Mr. Walter Davies, of London House, Lampeter, South Wales.

A match was played at South Croydon on Monday between the ten brothers Parris, whose ages range from 20 to 47, and the Brighton Road C.C. The match resulted in a win for the brothers by 54 runs. Percy Parris and Walter Parris obtained 40 of their runs in a quarter of an hour. This is the fourth annual match between the two sides, the Family having won all the three games which have been finished.
