Staffs 1st innings

- (a) Times bowling (i) Riley 25.1 overs? average, best fit with 25.1
(ii) Wells-bote 1 maiden? averages require 1
(iii) Order K S C T is the odd one out. Accept majority

Riley 25.1 overs ✓
Wells-bote 1 maiden ✓
Order is pointed ✓

Staffs 2nd innings

- (a) Briggs or Barnes batted? All except CR give Briggs: accept
(b) Times bowling Neville 0.2 overs? 2 overs instead of 0.2 would make his overs agree with Wis averages. G.S. is the only source which gives 2. While possible I think it is unlikely. I think we should accept Scorebook and take 0.2 overs and assume an error was made in computing the averages

Briggs batted ✓
Neville 0.2 overs ✓

Times 1st innings

- (a) Openers order. Opinion is divided but willing to accept Thompson (1)
Day (2)
(b) Nos 9 & 10 As K S C T + AP agree I think we should adopt Bowman (9)
Worman (10)
(c) FOW I suspect that AP has made a copying error except for the 9th & 10th wickets. From St Ads prepared to accept 1-11, 2-40, 5-61 and 6-61. After that Bowman was (9) and scored 4 ∴ it is possible AP's 9-89, 10-93 are correct.
Ask AP to check Scorebook.
(c) Staffs bowling order. K S C T seems to be the odd one out, accept
Deyes (4) Bucknell (3)

Thompson (1) ✓
Day (2) ✓
Bowman (9) ✓
Worman (10) ✓
1-11, 2-40 ✓
5-61, 6-61 ✓
Deyes (4) ✓
Bucknell (3) ✓

Times 2nd innings

- (a) Thompson. Evidence, including St Ads narrative supports
160 to Bucknell
(b) Riley. Think we should accept c Deyes to Barnes
(c) Staffs bowling. Willing to accept Barnes 8-59 and Bucknell 2-54
(d) FOW. S.T. "Roe & Riley remained together to carry the total to 78." St. Ads does not help. I suppose we ought to follow the Scorebook

Thompson
160 to Bucknell ✓
Riley & Deyes to Barnes ✓
Barnes 8-59 ✓
Bucknell 2-54 ✓
7-73 ✓

LINCOLNSHIRE v. STAFFORDSHIRE.

This match was played at Lincoln on Wednesday and Thursday, and resulted in a nine wickets' victory for the visitors. The great feature of the first innings, taken by Staffordshire, was that Barnes the bowler became Barnes the batsman, his contribution being 101. Against the total of 210 Lincolnshire could only reply with 93, the efforts of Broughton and A. E. Gibson alone saving the innings from being something like a collapse. Following on, Lincolnshire did rather better at the second time of asking, the total being 159. Riley and Worman this time coming to the rescue. Staffordshire were left only 43 to win, and lost one wicket in the attempt. Barnes bowled with great effect—3 for 28 and 3 for 59. Details:—

MINOR COUNTIES' CHAMPIONSHIP.

LINCOLNSHIRE v. STAFFORDSHIRE.

Staffordshire gained a brilliant victory over Lincolnshire in this return match, which commenced at Lincoln on Wednesday, in delightful weather, and before a fair company. On the last occasion the clubs met at Stoke, Staffordshire won by an innings and 70 runs. They again proved much too good for the Lincolnshire men on Wednesday. On a rather treacherous wicket the visitors put together 210 runs, 101 of which were compiled by Barnes, who batted in his style, his contribution including two 6's and ten 4's.

Against the fine bowling of Barnes and Bucknell, Lincolnshire could make little headway, and were all dismissed for 33, only two players securing double figures. Lincolnshire had performed to follow on, and Barnes, again bowling with deadly effect, captured five of the wickets at small cost, while Bucknell gained another. At the close Lincolnshire had added 49 to their first innings score at the expense of six wickets. On Wednesday, Rose and Riley remained together to carry the total to 78, when Rose was unluckily out to Bucknell, and with the eighth and ninth wicket down, Lincolnshire still required five runs to prevent the innings defeat. J. N. Worman and N. W. Wells-Cole batted so well that they raised the score to 150 after the day's cricket had proceeded an hour and a quarter. A brilliant stand closed simultaneously with the total at 139, the last man out having contributed 47 by capital cricket, and the wicket-keeping put on the same figure. This left Staffordshire wanting 43 runs to win. To accomplish this task the Staffordshire captain went in with Hollowood. Riley and Gibson opened the bowling. Briggs was out at 13—bowled by the seventh ball of the over. Hollowood and Fereday knocked off the runs, and Staffordshire won by nine wickets. Score and analysis:—

THE LINCOLNSHIRE MATCH.

The following description of the play in the match between Staffordshire and Lincolnshire...

P. Briggs, having won the toss, opened the batting for Staffordshire with Hollowood, but was unfortunate for, with one run scored, he returned the first ball he received to Riley...

of his legs at Barnes with the obvious intention of turning him to leg, but popping the ball up between the wickets instead for Barnes to catch it.

The home side were 117 behind, and had, of course, to follow on. Their start was even more disastrous than in the first innings...

On Thursday morning there was little interest left in the game, but the remaining Lincolnshire batsmen did better than expectation...

STAFFORDSHIRE AND THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

By their victory over Lincolnshire, at Lincoln, last week, Staffordshire have easily headed the Northern Division of the Minor Counties' Championship.

LINCOLNSHIRE v. STAFFORDSHIRE.

Staffordshire, who beat Lincolnshire at Stoke by an innings and 79 runs, again look like securing an easy victory over the latter county. Play in the return engagement commenced yesterday on the Lincoln Lindum ground. The visitors batted first and compiled 210, of which Barnes was responsible for 101. Lincolnshire failed altogether against the bowling of Barnes and Bucknell, and were only able to reply with 93, and thus had to follow-on. In their second venture Lincolnshire could do little against the deadly bowling of Barnes, and at the close of play had only made a further 48 for the loss of six wickets. MINOR COUNTIES CHAMPIONSHIP.

LINCOLNSHIRE v. STAFFORDSHIRE

When Lincolnshire resumed play in this match at Lincoln on Friday, with only four wickets in hand, they required 66 runs to avert a single innings defeat. However, Riley and Worman made a fine stand, and a further 110 runs were added, the second innings yielding 129 runs. Barnes captured eight wickets for 40 runs, and was especially conspicuous for three wickets at the score of only 37 runs, while he himself scored 101. Staffordshire required 45 to win, and they quickly knocked up the requisite runs, and won by nine wickets. Scores.—Staffordshire, 210 and 44 for 1 wkt.; Lincolnshire, 93 and 159.

three not outs, averaged 43. Altogether he has registered between 1,400 and 1,500 runs for the county at about 22 per innings, his highest score being 138 v. Kent Second at Felixstowe four years ago. He makes his runs at a good pace by hard driving and skilful cutting, and does excellent work in the slips, but is not a bowler.

His elder brother, Captain Francis Tyrwhitt Drake Wilson (born at Gilsborough Hall on April 9th, 1876) does take part in the attack, and with slow leg-breaks and an occasional googly gets many wickets in Army cricket, as well as for the county, when the exigencies of military duty allow of his representing it. Captain Wilson is a really fine all-round player, good enough for any team, a stylish and aggressive batsman, an effective bowler, deadly on his day, and a capital field in the slips. In 1907 he ran up 145 v. Kent Second at Flixstowe; and in 1908 he scored 377 in 10 completed innings for the county, his highest being 183 v. Norfolk at Ipswich, and took 20 wickets for 396 runs. Without doing quite as well as this in either 1909 or 1910, he achieved very useful work; his only innings for Suffolk this season was 74 v. Norfolk at Bury.

Mr. Philip Wyndham Cobbold (born January 5th, 1875), a Suffolk man in every thew and sinew, is probably the side's best bowler, and the pity of it is that he cannot find time to play in every match. He is slow to medium in pace, with irreproachable length, does not "do" very much, but does it either way, and with pace from the pitch; and his action is so easy that he can go on all day without tiring. Without ever being a great bat, he has often made runs. His scholastic record is Eton and Cambridge; he was in the school eleven in 1892 (when he headed the bowling averages) and 1893, and he got his blue at Cambridge in 1896, when he took 24 wickets for the 'Varsity at under 20 runs each. He played for the newly-formed Suffolk team in 1902, and has played at least once in each season since, though seldom regularly—this season in only two matches. But in spite of his irregular appearances, he has taken as many as 185 wickets at a cost of under 13 runs each, and has aggregated about 550 runs with an average of between 13 and 14, his best scores being 53 v. Beds. at Bedford in 1909, and 48 v. Norfolk at Ipswich in 1902. At rare intervals he appears in one of the M.C.C.'s big matches, almost always with success as a bowler.

Twenty-six years ago Mr. Arthur Kenelm Watson played a splendid innings of 135 for Harrow v. Eton at Lord's, up to that date (though it has since been beaten by Mr. T. G. O. Cole) the highest score ever made for the school on the hill in the great match. Mr. Watson, who was born at Harrow on March 23rd, 1867, was then in his second year in the school team. In 1886 he went up to Oxford, but did not get his blue until 1889, his failure to realise at the 'Varsity his schoolboy promise disappointing many of his friends. His best score for the Dark Blue eleven was an exceptionally good 89 v. the M.C.C. at Oxford. For some time he played on and off for Middlesex; in later years Norfolk (1904 to 1910) and Suffolk have had the benefit of his assistance. For Norfolk he averaged 30 (40 innings, two not outs, 1,149 runs, highest score 105); for Suffolk in 1911, his first season in the team, he scored 248 in six completed innings, including a brilliant 128 v. Cambs. at Ipswich. Always a really fine bat, in spite of his temporary set back at Oxford, Mr. Watson (now Head of Ipswich School) seems at forty-four almost as good as ever, and will probably go on making big scores for years yet to come.
