W.P.Williams is given as batting No 8, which is unlikely, and I suspect the scores were put into the page while the Press was waiting to run. Also have Lockyer batting before D.H.davies, which seems plausible but cannot be relied on because of above.

DERBYSHIRE v. WARWICKSHIRE. Played at Blackwell on June 18, 20 and 21. WEEK-END CRICKET. A RECORD PARTNERSHIP. Drawn.

The visiting side batted the whole of the first day on a fast and easy wicket, scoring 429 for the loss of but five wickets. The feature of the play was the batting of Charlesworth, who, going in upon the dismissal of Lilley at 40, scored 216 out of 338 in 220 minutes; with Kinneir he put on 166 for the second wicket in two hours and with Quaife 172 for the third in 100 minutes. Charlesworth was missed when 92 and 204, and Kinneir at 45. An idea of the severity of Charlesworth's hitting can be obtained from the fact that he hit six 6's and thirty 4's. At the end of the day Quaife carried out his bat for 80, and on Monday added only 8 before being caught; he hit ten 4's and made no mistake during the 140 minutes he was in. Santall subsequently did well and when the score had reached 504 for seven wickets the innings was declared closed. The runs were made in five hours and forty minutes. In the Derbyshire innings the batting of Newton overshadowed everything else. In an hour and three-quarters he scored 87 without a mistake, hitting fifteen 4's; his chief strokes were cuts and a hit between mid-on and short-leg. Handford, though making only 18, helped to add 89 for the second wicket, and although Higson and Jelf contributed useful scores the last five wickets went down for 48. Following-on, Derbyshire made 51 for the loss of Newton in the last 50 minutes of the day, and when stumps were drawn still required 191 runs to save the innings defeat. There was some rain during Monday night, and for some time on Tuesday matters fared rather badly with the home side, seven wickets going down for 80 runs in three-quarters of an hour. At that point when Derbyshire, with only two wickets in hand, required 111 to avoid the innings defeat, Chapman and Warren came together and, obtaining a complete mastery over the bowling, actually put on 283 in 175 minutes—a record stand for the ninth wicket in first-class cricket. (See Gossip.) Each player batted 185 minutes, Chapman hitting two 6's and nineteen 4's and Warren who was lame, and gave no chance, but Warren who was lame, and missed several runs in consequence, might have been caught at short-leg when 60. Left with 189 to win, Warwickshire had no chance of obtaining the runs in the time available and when they had batted for 50 minutes stumps were drawn. Score and analysis:—
