COUNTY CRICKET.

CARMARTHEN v. MONMOUTH.

SILVERLOCK SCORES 112 AND DOES THE "HAT TRICK."

Carmarthenshire, who have become accustomed to decisive defeats, were beaten once more by Monmouthshire to the tune of an innings and 43 runs. This is just what was anticipated. All the county matches in which Carmarthenshire participate are regarded as foregone conclusions, because they almost invariably get a sound trouncing and occasionally the margin borders on the ludicrous. The chief reason for this is the absence of "pro." bowlers from the ranks of the Carmarthenshire team, and until a change in this direction is brought about then they will have to grin and bear the punishments so mercilessly inflicted upon them. In their match with Monmouthshire, which was played at Stradey on Monday and Tuesday, they managed to lessen the gulf between their scores and that of Monmouthshire as compared with the corresponding encounter of last season, but beyond this there was not very much to derive consolation from.

Monmouthshire, who went in first on a slow wicket in unpromising weather, had their innings opened by Silverlock and A. M. Malthy, who faced the bowling of Gravelle and E. Gee first of all. Both batsmen hit out freely when contending with Gravelle, and the other change bowlers, but they, along with the other batsmen dared not take liberties with E. Gee. The first partnership totalled 127 runs, but before Silverlock, who eventually scored 112, had reached his half century, he gave a chance to Hugh Howell, which was not taken. When the Llanelly vice-captain went on to bowl he was severely punished by Silverlock, whose total included 2 sixes, 14 fours, and 10 twos, but a few minutes later he clean beat Malthy, and in the same over E. S. Phillips was disposed of by him before he scored a single run. When Diver appeared at the wicket, 200 had been signalled. After scoring six runs Diver failed to resist the temptation of leaving his crease to take a smack at Gee, and he thus gave Will Davies a rare chance of stumping him. To the surprise of everyone the Llanelly stumper, who is usually so alert, muffed the ball, and the chance was lost. After this Diver hit out freely, carrying his total to 58 before being dismissed by Gee, who was easily the most effective bowler on the Carmarthenshire side. The Llanelly left-hand bowler in 30 overs had nine maidens to his credit, and captured five wickets for 68 runs. Monmouthshire's total was carried to 297, when the last wicket fell at 4.30.

The Carmarthenshire innings was opened by Ike Evans and Percy Rees, who faced the bowling of F. G. Phillips and Silverlock. The Llanelly captain, after contributing 16 runs, was stumped by Diver off Silverlock, and his place was taken by Hugh Howell, who, along with Evans, made a splendid stand. During their stay at the wicket a couple of changes were made in the bowling, and when Howell's total stood at 21 he met with a similar fate as Percy Rees. A little later Evans, who scored at a good pace, was well bowled by F. G. Phillips after contributing 40 runs. Five wickets had fallen when stumps were drawn for 105 runs.

On Tuesday morning the game was resumed in unsettled weather. Heavy showers of rain had fallen over-night, and when play was restarted there was a very strong wind blowing. G. Gravelle and A. P. James, who had scored 11 and 6 respectively, when the adjournment was made, faced the bowling of Watkins and Stedman. In the third over, which was taken by Silverlock, Gravelle was dismissed and Hubert John became associated with James, who was batting remarkably well. The secretary of the Carmarthenshire team had only scored two runs when he was caught out by Malthy off Stedman. Eventually A. P. James, who contributed 41 runs, was caught and bowled by Silverlock. Two more wickets having fallen to the lot of Stedman, all the Carmarthenshire men were out for 156 runs, thus being 141 runs behind their opponents.

Carmarthenshire followed on and after the first four batsmen had been disposed of the others, with the exception of Will Davies, collapsed completely before the bowling of Silverlock, who found the wicket to his liking. In the first innings he secured six wickets for 54 runs, but he was far more effective in the second innings, when he captured eight wickets for 27 runs, and performed the "hat trick." Will Davies made the best stand for Carmarthenshire in the second innings, contributing 24 runs of the total of 98 which included 21 extras. It would hardly be fair to pass unnoticed Monmouthshire's stumper, inasmuch as in addition to scoring 58 runs, he stumped no less than four of the Carmarthenshire players out. Scores:-

MIDDLESEX v. NOTTINGHAMSHIRE.

Played at Lord's on June 30, July 1 and 2.

Drawn.

Thursday's play was much interfered with by rain, cricket being limited to three hours and three-quarters. In that time the home side made 191 for nine wickets, but except for the play of Tarrant and More the cricket was almost featureless. Warner helped to give the side a splendid start, batting 35 minutes for 39 and helping to make 97 for the first wicket, but the total was only 99 when the fourth wicket fell. Seven men were out for 182, but Anson and More by adding 58 in an hour redeemed some of the failures. In order that P. Pearson-Gregory might receive a trial for Nottingham, George Gunn was left out of the side. Torrential rain during Friday morning prevented a ball being bowled on the second day, the decision that no cricket would be possible being come to at a quarter past three. On Saturday there were more showers, and just after two o'clock it was decided that further play was out of the question. Score and analysis:—

DERBYSHIRE v. LEICESTERSHIRE.

Played at Derby on July 2, 4 and 5.

WEEK-END CRICKET.

Derbyshire won by six wickets.

Only an hour's play was possible in this match on Saturday, during which time the visitors, by uneventful cricket, made 60 for four wickets, Wood being not out 20. On Monday, Derbyshire were seen to greater advantage than their opponents on the soft wicket, and at the end of the day seemed likely to pull off their first win of the season. Owing to neuralgia, Humphries could not play after the first day; his position at the wicket was taken in the first innings by Needham and in the second by Beet of Somerset, who had taken no previous part in the game. The Leicestershire innings closed for 110, the last few wickets falling very quickly before Forrester, who dismissed four men at a cost of a single. Wood, missed when 34, carried his bat through the innings for 38. In three hours and ten minutes Derbyshire scored 178, thus obtaining a lead of 62, notwithstanding that Humphries was unable to bat. There were several useful contributions, and the longest stand was 41 by Newton and Lowe for the ninth wicket. In their second innings Leicestershire lost four good men for 65 in 80 minutes, play then ending for the day. On the third morning the innings closed for 118, leaving Derbyshire with 57 to win—a number they obtained for the loss of four wickets. This was the County's first win during the season. SOMERSET v. HAMPSHIRE.

Played at Bath on June 30, July 1 and 2.

Hampshire won by an innings and 2 runs.

The ground had been so saturated by heavy rain that not a ball could be bowled on Thursday. It was not until one o'clock on the second day that the game could be commenced, but so much progress was then made that before stumps were drawn fifteen wickets went down for 296 runs. In less than three hours Somerset were dismissed for 136, only Hardy playing with any confidence. Hampshire started disastrously, losing Mead, Llewellyn and Greig for 15, but although Bowell and Johnston added 41 half the side were out for 64 by the end of the day. The remaining wickets wrought a great improvement on the third day, the total being taken to 248 before the innings closed. Johnston made his runs without a chance in 110 minutes; he and Brown added 66 together and Remnant and Kennedy 67 for the last wicket in 40 minutes. With 113 required to save the innings defeat, Somerset lost Lewis and Herbert for 21 in 40 minutes. Hardy, however, played steadily, but received very poor support, and could not save the innings defeat. Score and analysis:—
