To-day's Cricket.

MONMOUTHSHIRE v. DORSET.

Monmouthshire were well favoured by the weather to-day, when they opened a match with Dorset on the Athletic Ground, Newmarket.

Monmouthshire batted first, the innings being opened by Silverlock and M. Stratton. Silverlock opened the innings, being partnered by Cummins, and he secured a single from the first ball of Sewell's over, and in the fourth over secured the boundary for four. However he fell in Cummins's third over—clean bowled.

Malby succeeded Silverlock, and came down slowly. The second wicket fell to H. Sewell, leaving Malby, and the bowler looked like being master of the situation. Reg. partnered Stratton, and opened with a single. The next ball nearly opened them, but a catch was missed, and Reg took the wicket to E. S. Stratton's wicket for 15, when Diver joined Reg, who was missed by the wicket keeper in the next over.

BASTON PLAY. Malby succeeded Stratton at 25 Diver was caught at leg by Hodges and his place was taken by E. S. Phillips. The first hour's play was taken by E. S. Phillips. The first hour's play was taken by E. S. Phillips.

When the game was resumed at 2.15 in threatening weather, Hodges and Reg were supported by the bowling of Woolley, whose third ball bowled Green, the state of the pitch then being S.P.S. and the wicket clean for 55.

A CLINKING BALL. Domet entered upon their first innings at 2.50 the Rev. W. H. Arundell and H. M. Greenhill having to face the deliveries of Silverlock and Gordon Phillips. Diver's first run came from the first four over, and Gordon Phillips then took Arundell off the stump with a ball on the ball—3-1. H. R. Cummins joined Greenhill and ran two sharp singles before Greenhill put down Silverlock on a square leg run that short one from E. B. Williams. Next ball Silverlock found his way to Cummins's wicket, the telegraph recording at this stage 6-2.

Considering that the wicket was easy, if slow, this was distinctly good business for Monmouthshire, and the goodly ring of spectators were delighted when, with only 9 on the board, Greenhill had his stumps open by Silverlock, and retired for a contribution made up of four singles.

Sewell luckily missed a three and Knight made a big hit to leg of Silverlock, but smart fielding by E. B. Williams turned a possible four into a mere single. Runs were difficult to obtain, but Sewell placed Gordon Phillips neatly through the slips for three. His effort was not short as 17 by a capital catch at square leg 17-6-6.

HIT HIM SWEETLY. In the same over Gordon was easily taken at slip, and five wickets were down for 17 runs, Silverlock up to date having taken four wickets for eight runs. The next batsman was E. F. Hodges, but the deliveries against Carniar came at last, the ball hitting 23 in one over from Howard—two sixes and two fours. By day he started more moderately, with a single off Silverlock, and turning his attention to Gordon Phillips, he hit him sweetly to leg for a four, which had to be run out, as the ball did not travel to the boundary. However, at 25, his career was cut short, as he missed a ball to mid-on, and was out caught by Will Iruan. Harrison next partnered Knight, who was exhibiting sound defence. Harrison was the to Silverlock for three, and seven wickets were thus down for 36.

At 31 Raker took the ball from Gordon Phillips, and only two runs came from his first two overs. Monmouthshire were fielding bravely, but Knight pulled Raker round to leg run three, and Diver came in to support. Knight punished Silverlock to the extent of a two and four next over.

A DIFFICULT CHANCE. At 45 Goodden had his bats removed by a beautiful ball from Raker, and retired for a "duck." E. Chester-Master joining Knight, who now led 25 to his credit. Knight sent the 50 with a two off Raker, and as runs were now coming steadily from Phillips went on at the partition and the Raker, and twice in his first over nearly bowled Chester-Master with balls which ran past over the stumps. The batsman appeared well off, and Chester-Master had hit two twos off successive balls from Silverlock, when he tried the game once too often, and was out to a magnificent running catch in the long field by Stratton, the wicket falling at 56.

Woolley, who whipped in, was nearly run out first ball, but he arrived to see Knight place Gordon Phillips to leg for three. Next over Woolley was missed off a difficult chance to Williams on the leg side, but there was a lot of excuse for the batsman, as he had to take the ball whilst running sideways.

The last wicket put on ten runs, and Woolley was then bowled by Gordon Phillips for five, the innings closing for 55.

As some doubt appears to exist upon the point it may be explained that two innings should be completed before a definite result can be arrived at, but if rain or any other circumstances prevents this, Monmouthshire may claim the victory on the first innings by 23 runs.

Knight, who carried out his bat for 30, was the only man on the Dorset side to make double figures, his hit comprising a four, three 2's, and five singles.

MONMOUTHSHIRE'S SECOND VENUE. Monmouthshire began their second innings at 4.15, M. Stratton and A. M. Malby being in opposition to the bowling of Cummins and Sewell. The opening was tame, the first run being a leg leg in the second over. Stratton hit Cummins into the long field, and there were man, but the simple called "one short," so that only two were scored. A similar fate then occurred from what ought to have been a two hit by Stratton, who, with his score at four, was missed in the slips. Malby off drove Sewell freely for four.

Both Malby and Stratton punished Sewell freely severely on the leg side, but four were difficult to obtain, the boundary being a long one all round. At 23 Woolley took his ball from Cummins, who crossed over and relieved Sewell. Gordon, the wicket-keeper, gave up the gloves in favour of Greenhill at 55, so he had injured his finger. With Monmouthshire's total at 56, Gordon went on in favour of Cummins and nearly poked Stratton in his first over.

BATTING FAILS AT NEWPORT
MONMOUTHSHIRE LEAD ON FIRST INNINGS.

No corresponding match last year. The minor counties' championship match between Monmouthshire and Dorsetshire commenced at Newport on Friday before a very small attendance. The wicket was good, and the weather favourable. Monmouthshire played the same team as that which defeated Wiltshire, with the exception of F. Best and W. F. Green, Newport, who substituted Captain Giles and L. S. White. Monmouthshire sent in Stratton and Silverlock first, but they did not remain long together, as Stratton was dismissed for 1, and Silverlock for 2. S. Phillips was the most successful scorer, with 27. Six wickets fell to Cummins and Sewell in ninety minutes for 48 runs, and at the luncheon interval Monmouthshire had scored 23 for eight wickets. The two remaining wickets failed to add to the score.

Dorsetshire fared no better in the initial stage of their first innings, these wickets falling for 8 runs. Matters continued to go badly with the visitors, who lost six wickets for 17 runs, Silverlock taking four for 8. H. F. Hodges, who scored 12 in one over (two 6's and two 4's) against Carmarthenshire, gave an easy catch to Williams when he was bowled.

Monmouthshire, leading by 17 runs, gave a very much better performance in their second innings, passing the century—just under two hours—for the loss of four wickets, Silverlock being splendidly caught and bowled by Harrison for 18. Scores:—

No corresponding match last year. The minor counties' championship match, Monmouthshire v Dorsetshire, commenced at Newport on Saturday, the home team winning by 20 runs. Monmouthshire resumed their interrupted second innings at 10.15, having the total of 138 in 100.15. Silverlock and F. G. Phillips, who took five and four wickets for 48 and 27 respectively, were the most successful bowlers for the home team. The visitors, who were dismissed for 68, were bowled out in 100.15. The match was a very close one, and it seemed that the home team's play would be exciting. The sixth wicket, however, fell at 11.15, the seventh at 12.15, and the remaining batsmen were dismissed for 2. Complete score:—

MONMOUTHSHIRE v. DORSET.—This match, commenced at Newport on Friday. The home side batted first on a slow wicket, and were all out for 89, a score which appeared to exaggerate the difficulties of the wicket. Dorset, however, did even worse, for they were all out after poor batting for 66, of which Knight made thirty. At their second venture the home team made a better show, and closed the day 159 ahead, with five wickets to fall. Upon the resumption, on Saturday, the batting was feeble and the innings closed for the addition of 23 runs. This left Dorset to get 183 to win, and when the century was passed for the loss of only two wickets, they looked like doing it. But from that point Silverlock and Gordon Phillips bowled finely, and the fielding, which had been rather faulty, became keenness itself. Great catches by Maltby and Diver and smart work at the wicket by the latter helped to secure victory for the home county, and Dorset, who only put on 24 runs for the last seven wickets, were defeated by 56. LORD HAWKE'S VIEWS.

In connection with cricket, as with the theatre, there is a strong tendency to look back upon the past through rose-coloured spectacles. Of this truism I was reminded on reading the interview with Lord Hawke on his fiftieth birthday.

Lord Hawke was on much firmer ground when he spoke of the altered conditions and the effect on cricket of the growing stress of work. If R. E. Foster, Spooner and Bosanquet had been independent men, able every summer, like the Walkers years ago, to give up all their time to the game, amateur cricket to-day would have been vastly stronger than it is.
