Norfolk 1st innings

(a) Order The CIP/CWN/EDP cards are supported by the narratives
Think we should ignore CR

Order as pointed ✓

(b) WJ Thursby c KG Reid? EDP narrative states KG Reid "held a fast down ball at midon" Narrative of CWN and CIP support this

WJ Thursby c KG Reid ✓

(c) FOW cannot discern total at fall of 4th - 7th wickets from the narratives. EDP states "half side out for 244. MH Thursby and Fuleba added 46 for the 6th wk". This gives 6-290 However CWN states "Holman & Birkbeck... were dismissed for an addition of 20 runs". As 3rd wklet fell at 225 this would make 5-245 CWN then states "The pair (Thursby & Fuleba) added 47 which would make 6-292. Reluctantly feel we should leave 5th & 6th wickets blank.

delete 5-244 ✓
6-290 ✓

(d) Camb bowling order

The EDP narrative supports in card therefore willing to accept order as pointed

Order as pointed ✓

Norfolk 2nd innings

(a) Falcon c Ling/Coulson. All except CR give c Ling. Accept.

Falcon c Ling ✓

(b) Openers order 1st wklet fell at 3 - an odd number therefore batsmen must have been at the opposite end at which they began. Rose bowled (2) and bowled Falcon so does it not make Falcon (1) Thursby MH (2)?

Falcon (1) ✓
Thursby MH (2) ✓

(c) Camb's bowling

Rose 50/51 runs conceded Averages require 51 I have amended there in averages.
Wilson 31/30 runs conceded Averages require 30
Whybro 1/0 maidens Averages require 0
Tebbutt 5/6 over Averages require 6

Rose 51 runs conceded ✓
Wilson 30 runs conceded ✓
Whybro 0 maidens ✓
Tebbutt 6 over ✓

Bowling order. Think we should accept EDP order and ignore TS. But ^{CWN} narrative suggests Rose changed ends, if this is the case it was most likely that WJ Reid's one over was the means of so doing. EDP narrative does not help. Of course LT Reid could have been put on for the last over of the day. On balance accept EDP

Order as pointed ✓

Camb's innings

(a) Order Hayward/Tebbutt CR is the odd one out. EDP narrative supports Hayward (5) Tebbutt (6)

Hayward (5) ✓
Tebbutt (6) ✓
5-318 ✓

(b) FOW willing to accept 5-318

(c) Norfolk Bowling order EDP narrative gives Lybzon (2) rather than Ames. Therefore accept EDP order

MINOR COUNTIES' CHAMPIONSHIP. Cambs. v. Norfolk.

CENTURIES BY REID AND TEBBUTT. The County team, fresh from their brilliant victory over Suffolk on Tuesday, made an auspicious start in their return match with Norfolk at Fenner's on Wednesday. The visitors batted first, and on a perfect wicket looked like staying in all day. Falcon and Falcon putting on 60 for the first wicket, and Falcon and Stevens afterwards batting brilliantly and taking the score to 225 before Stevens fell to Coulson. This was not until after the luncheon interval, prior to which the home team's prospects looked black. But Coulson seemed to find a spot soon after the resumption, and captured Stevens' wicket in his third over, the batsman playing a ball on to his wicket. In the same over Coulson obtained a further success, clean bowling Falcon, who swiped at him and missed, and so well did Coulson continue to bowl that the whole side was out for an additional 116 runs—considerably less than at first seemed likely. Cambs. had two and a half hours' batting, and the brothers Reid gave them an excellent start, each batsman playing correct and careful cricket, and being successful in disposing their 50 before stumps were drawn, when the score stood at 167 for one wicket, and Cambs. were in relatively as good a position as Norfolk had been. Included in Falcon's 114, which occupies about two hours, were one 6's and 4 1's. He only gave one real chance, a skyer to Tebbutt, when he had made 41, the Cambs. fieldman running under the ball, which came down behind him. Stevens hit 12 fours in his batting before lunch was a treat to watch. Falcon and Stevens putting on 200 before the interval in an hour and 15 minutes. After they left the game slowed down a lot. Colman and Birkbeck were the batsmen and both were dismissed for an addition of 20 runs, Coulson bowling the former for 11 and L. J. Reid taking Birkbeck in the slips off K. G. Reid's steady, making an occasional good hit. Fulcher was twice let off before he reached his 20—at 9 and 19. The pair added 47 before Thursby returned a ball to Coulson, who made an easy catch. W. Thursby came in successful in a counter-attack for 11, w of the first ball he received. In Coulson's next over Fulcher was out to a grand catch by Boreck at deep mid-off, the batsman having to run a considerable distance. Ames joined Thursby, but did not stay long. Coulson capturing his wicket with a pretty length ball which Ames tried to swipe to leg. Allsopp came in, only to see Thursby drive from Whybro's first ball. Allsopp was joined by Gibson, and was nearly run out in trying to snatch a run. After this the pair played lively cricket, both making some pretty shots, and putting the ball nicely out of reach of the fieldsmen. After they had added 26, however, Gibson was bowled by Rose for 8, and Allsopp took out his bat for 13, the innings closing at 4 o'clock for 340. Cambs. opened their innings with L. J. Reid and K. G. Reid, the former starting the score with a cut for four off Falcon. Both batsmen played carefully, but L. J. made some pretty strokes on the leg side, several times clearing the ball to the boundary. They took no chances but played steadily, and the 50 was sent up, despite several howling changes. Allsopp signalled his appearance with the ball by bowling a wide and a no-ball in his first over. As time went on L. J. Reid attracted the spectators to a fine display of cutting, and the Norfolk first-wicket score was passed without loss, and at the end of the first hour the score stood at 50. Birkbeck tried to tempt the batsmen with slow, but without success, and it was from the other end that the separation was at last effected, Fulcher bowling L. J. Reid with a fast ball that appeared to just glance on to the wicket off the batsman's pad and dislodging the leg ball. Included in Reid's fruitless 56 were seven 4's. One for 8. They ruled slow, neither batsman seeming able to do much with Fulcher, but the 100 was sent up after about an hour and sixteen minutes' play. K. G. Reid might have been caught by Ames off a hard cut, when he had made 42, but the ball was travelling very fast. At 6.10 Reid completed his 50, after an hour and 55 minutes' batting, and Wilson signalled his by getting Allsopp prettily to leg for 4. The rate of scoring now improved, and the 150 was sent up just after 6.15. Just before time Fulcher went on again, and started slugging them down at a great pace, but without success, and stumps were drawn with the score standing at 157 for one wicket. There seemed very little chance of the game being finished when play was resumed on Wednesday, and it was therefore pretty obvious that Cambs. were fighting for the three points which are obtained for a win on the first innings. K. G. Reid (59) and F. W. Wilson (38) continued their not out innings, Falcon and Gibson being the bowlers, the match having started a quarter of an hour earlier in order to enable the visitors to get away early. Runs came at a faster pace than overnight, and Wilson was not long in reaching his 50, but only added four more before he was well caught in the slips. He played excellent cricket for an hour and three-quarters, keeping his end up overnight when required. The two hundred had just previously gone up, scored in just over two and a half hours. Kenneth Reid stayed in for another 20 runs, getting out the following ball after he had reached three figures; his century occupied him three hours and ten minutes, and he only gave one chance, that being to the wicketkeeper when 69. He scored much faster this morning than overnight, and of his ten 4's six were scored this morning. Going in first he was third out, and had stayed to see the Norfolk score for the third wicket passed. Lung played very carefully for 20, but was then finely caught at short-leg. Tebbutt and Hayward were now together. The Rodney captain soon had a slice of luck, obtaining a single and getting 4 from an overthrown. Tebbutt at once from Allsopp, and hit Birkbeck for a beautiful 6 to leg, and 300 was hoisted at 3.18, after the wicket had added 56. Falcon returned to the orchard end, and Hayward played his first ball on to his wicket. Tebbutt had then made 37, whilst Hayward had been playing remarkably well and was getting nicely set. Gibson was now bowling at the pavilion end, whilst Boreck had partnered his captain, who reached his 50 in as many minutes, and with Boreck being bowled by Ames lunch was taken with the score 337 for 6.

After the interval Whybro joined Tebbutt, and the Norfolk total was very quickly passed, but with the total at 331 Whybro was caught behind the stumps, Thurgar just succeeding in holding the ball. Tebbutt had made 66 when there was an appeal for a catch. He played a ball behind the wicket, the stumps missed the ball, and it eventually went into first slip's hands; but was not upheld, the ball striking the ground just in front of Thurgar. Rose was given out 1 b.w. for a single. Unfortunately given out by Tebbutt, Watts soon became impatient, and jumping out to Pulcher's slow, he was beaten all the way. Tebbutt took three 4's in succession from Ames. Coulson helped to send up 400, and at that time Tebbutt was within four of his century. Tebbutt then gave an extremely hard chance to mid-off, but taking a boundary from Fulcher, who had just called for a new ball, he reached his century, having only been batting for an hour and three-quarters. Tebbutt and Coulson were now both playing very finely, and hitting almost every ball, and Birkbeck went on, and had a beautiful over, 15 runs being scored, Tebbutt once hitting him clean over the path, whilst on the last ball the skipper was missed at deep square leg. The wicket had put on 87 in less than half-an-hour, when Coulson was captured at deep square leg, the innings closing for other rather success of Tebbutt was extremely popular. As time but as he is, he has been extremely unlucky during the last few seasons. He was only batting for a couple of hours, a brilliant innings, including two 6's and seven 4's. His batting figures for this season are: 9, 0, 30, 47, 14, 3, 61, 84, and 127. Except for the one chance on the leg boundary just before he got out and one on the other rather risky strokes, he played almost perfect cricket. Norfolk, 125 runs behind, sent in Falcon and M. H. Thursby, Coulson and G. A. Rose sharing the attack. During Coulson's second over Watts fumbled the ball and spoilt his chance of stumping Thursby, but changing ends, Ling caught Falcon off home before he had scored. At 21 Tebbutt went on himself for Rose, whom he shifted to the other end to get the benefit of the wind. At 32 Coulson displaced Rose, whilst Whybro went on at the pavilion end, and in his second over Stevens gave a difficult chance, low down, to Watts. With 79 up Stevens, who had just reached his 50, played Whybro out, and another change-over but was dismissed off. With 'Gibson in the century was telegraphed after over an hour's play. Thursby made the same score as Stevens, and then was beaten by Rose. Colman was well caught by Watt for a 6, and Ames and Thursby defied the bowlers, and played out time, and the match was left drawn, Cambs. securing the points for leading on the first innings.

The County team, fresh from their brilliant victory over Suffolk on Tuesday, made an auspicious start in their return match with Norfolk at Fenner's on Wednesday. The visitors batted first, and on a perfect wicket looked like staying in all day. Falcon and Thurgar put on 60 for the first wicket, and Falcon and Stevens afterwards batted brilliantly and taking the score to 224 before Stevens fell to Coulson. He had two such half hours' batting, and the brothers Reid gave them an excellent example each batsman playing correct and careful cricket, and being successful in passing the ball before stumps were drawn, when the score stood at 167 for one wicket, and Cambs. were in a relatively good position as Norfolk had been included in Falcon's 114, which occurred about two hours, was one of the best. He only gave one real chance, a stroke to Tebbutt, when he had made 44, the Cambs. field was running under the ball, which came deep behind him. Stevens hit 12 fours in his 67, which occupied him just over an hour. The batting before lunch was a treat to watch, Falcon and Stevens putting on 230 before the interval in an hour and 15 minutes. After the interval the game slowed down a lot. Colman and Birkbeck were the batsmen, and both were dismissed for an addition of 20 runs. Coulson leaving the former for 11 and L. J. Reid taking Birkbeck in the slips off K. G. Reid's bowling. Thursty and Fulcher played steadily, making an occasional good hit. Fulcher was twice let off before he reached his 20 at 9 and 19. The pair added 47 before Thursty returned a ball to Coulson, who made an easy catch. W. Thursty came in and survived a confident appeal for l.b.w. of the first ball he received. In Coulson's next over, Fulcher was out to a grand catch by Bocoock at deep mid-off, the fieldman having to run a considerable distance. Ames joined Thursty, but did not stay long. Coulson capturing his wicket with a pretty length ball which Ames tried to swipe to leg. Allsopp came in, only to see Thursty smartly caught by K. G. Reid off a very hard drive from Whybro's first ball. Allsopp was joined by Gibson, and was nearly run out in trying to snatch a run. After this the pair played lively cricket, both making some pretty shots and putting the ball nicely out of reach of the fieldmen. At five they had added 25, how- ever, Gibson was bowled by Rose for 3, and Allsopp took out his bat for 13, the innings closing at 4 o'clock for 340.

Cambs. opened their innings with L. J. Reid and K. G. Reid, the former starting the score with a cut for four off Falcon. Both batsmen played carefully, but L. Reid with a fast ball that appeared to just glance on to the wicket of the batsman's pad and dislodging the leg ball. Included in Reid's faultless 56 were seven 4's. One for 91. Play ruled slow, neither batsman seeming able to do much with Fulcher, but the 100 was sent up after about an hour and sixteen minutes' play. K. G. Reid might have been caught by Ames off a hard cut when he had made 42, but the ball was travelling very fast. At 6.10 Reid completed his 50, after an hour and 35 minutes' batting, and Wilson signalled this by getting Allsopp prettily to leg for 4. The rate of scoring now improved, and the 150 went up just after 6.15. Just before time Fulcher went on again, and started slinging them down at a great pace, but without success, and stumps were drawn with the score standing at 167 for one wicket.

There seemed very little chance of the game being finished when play was resumed on Wednesday, and it was therefore pretty obvious that Cambs. were fighting for the three points which are obtained for a win on the first innings. K. G. Reid (58) and L. J. The wicket had put on 87 in less than half-an-hour, when Coulson was captured at deep square leg, the innings closing for 466. The success of Tebbutt was extremely popular. As long as he is, he has been extremely unlucky during the last few seasons. He was only batting for a couple of hours, his brilliant innings including two 6's and seventeen 4's. With 79 up Stevens, who had just reached his 50, played Whybro on, and another dangerous bat was disposed of. With Colman in the century, Thursty made the same score as Stevens, and then was beaten by Rose. Colman was well caught by Watts for a good two dozen. Birkbeck and Thursty defied the bowlers, and played out time, and the match was left drawn, Cambs. securing the points for leading on the first innings.

Cambs. v. Bedfordshire.
At Luton on Friday and Saturday.
Cambs.—H. C. Tebbutt (capt.), F. W. Pigg, L. J. Reid, K. G. Reid, F. W. Wilson, H. H. Thursty, R. H. V. Whybro, O. W. Bocoock, Coulson, Watts and Ling.

The county team on Wednesday and Thursday met Norfolk on Fenner's, and again showed that their improved form is no mere passing mood, but is indeed real and abiding. Norfolk, obtaining first use of the wicket, put together the very nice total of 340, and when a side obtains over 300 they are generally pretty well satisfied with themselves. Of this number M. Falcon, the Blue, was responsible for 114 and G. A. Stevens 76. When Cambs. took their turn at the wickets they went for the runs at once, the brothers Reid opening in fine style, and the first-wicket produced 91. K. G. Reid just topped the century, and H. C. Tebbutt did even better with 127 (not out) to his credit, a brilliant piece of batting, and the innings realised 466, Cambs. thus securing the points on the first innings. Norfolk scored 242 for four wickets at their second attempt, and their stumps were pulled up. The amateurs in the team have indeed come out of their shell this season, both in batting and bowling, and instead of being at the bottom of the table, Cambs. are now nearly on top.

WORCESTERSHIRE v. HAMPSHIRE.

Played at Worcester on August 17, 18 and 19 and won by Worcestershire by eight wickets. Hampshire, lacking the services of some of their best amateurs, won the toss but were put out for 254 despite a second wicket stand of 131 by Mead and Stone. That total the home side had no difficulty in surpassing. Bowley and Pearson making 87 for the first partnership and Arnold and Burns 129 for the third. Arnold's innings was quite free from fault and lasted three hours and contained thirteen 4's. During the second day 503 runs were obtained for seventeen wickets, Worcestershire scoring 272 for eight and Hampshire 231 for nine. The visitors lost Mead and Stone without a run between them upon going in the second time, and although Brown made 65 by very attractive cricket and McDonnell and Newman added 54 for the ninth wicket, Worcestershire were set a very easy task. WARWICKSHIRE v. LEICESTERSHIRE.

WEEK-END CRICKET.

Played at Hinckley on August 19 and 21 and won by Warwickshire by an innings and 54 runs. Winning the toss meant winning the match, for the wicket was good on the first day but ruined by rain on the second. Some brisk run-getting was seen on Saturday. Smith made 36 of the first 55 runs in 35 minutes, and then Charlesworth made 142 out of 225 in two hours and a-half. Hitting brilliantly, and giving no chance, the latter made two 6's, a 5 and twenty one 4's, and put on 65 in 50 minutes with Kinneir, 72 in 35 with Foster and 117 in 65 with Baker. In Leicestershire's first innings Shipman hit freely and well, and claimed 69 of the 93 added in 70 minutes for the fifth wicket. For the fourth time this season Wood carried his bat through the innings: his 54 was a faultless display which lasted two hours and a-half. In the follow-on Whitehead and Boden put on 50 for the third wicket in 50 minutes. Score and analysis:—
