FAST SCORING PARTNERSHIP

113 Runs Put on in An Hour

A rousing fifth wicket partnership in which L. G. Jones was the leading light was the feature of Cardiff's game with Stroud at Cardiff on Tuesday.

The pair became associated when Cardiff had lost four wickets for 105, and when E. C. Dolman left exactly sixty minutes later 113 runs had been added. L. G. Jones, who batted one hundred and thirty-six minutes for his 118 runs, took his time in settling down, but later he hit out amazingly and was only twenty-one minutes getting his last 50 runs. In all he hit eighteen 4's. Details:—

THE CLOCK GOES BACK

The Mayor Interrupts Cricket Match with Beer

GENTLEMEN WERE WELL ON TOP UNTIL THEN

A team of Newport cricketers met Eleven Gentlemen of the District in a single innings match upon the Rodney-parade field at Newport

IT was a hundred years ago in June that Newport Cricket Club, which was later merged into the Athletic Club, played their first game. It was played at Raglan against Pontypool.

Of the return match at Newport, in the first week of August, 1836, the following was written in the "Monmouthshire Merlin," which is now incorporated with the South Wales Argus:

"The second match this season between Newport and Pontypool Clubs was played on Newport cricket ground on Tuesday last. Propitious was the day and the scene delightful; and many of the most respectable inhabitants of the town and neighbourhood were attracted to view the manly sport.

"The play was admitted by some old tacticians as highly creditable, and the interest appeared sustained to the close.

"But justice to the Pontypool club claims the compliment that they have some superior and crack men among them. We must yield the palm," as one of our cricketers good-humouredly said—"Great let us call them, for they conquered us."

"Summary: Pontypool first innings, 62; second ditto, 54—116; Newport first innings, 54; second ditto, 48—102. Pontypool won by 14 runs."

ONLY LOBS

The clock was put back to those days on Thursday. The players wore clothes of a century ago. There were top hats, waistcoats, tail coats and cravat, and on every face were sideboard whiskers and heavy moustaches.

Scores were recorded by notching ash sticks.

The game was played strictly to the rules of these early days. Attack was restricted to lob-bowling. No pads were worn. There were no boundaries. Every hit had to be "run out."

Players smoked clay pipes and batsmen put them down just outside the Crease when they faced the bowling.

True to the tradition of the past the fun began when the captains, Major J. E. C. Partridge and Dr. N. Rocyn Jones, went on the field and hotly argued where the wickets should be pitched.

Then the umpires, also in period costume, Messrs. J. Cox and Harry J. Rowlands, went out and pitched the wickets.

Not long after the Mayor of Newport, Councillor William Casey, had bowled the first ball, which, by the way, was wide of the wicket, it was noticed that the scorers, Messrs. Reg. Webb and Sid Ingram, who were also in costume, fell out and Webb pushed Ingram off the seat and put him on his back.

ON A WHEELBARROW

The Gentlemen of the District took first stand. Lieutenant-Colonel F. Gordon Phillips and Jack Wreford opened to the bowling of T. B. Williams and N. Fairclough.

Before a run had been scored there was a misunderstanding, and Wreford was run out.

Norman Abraham was then caught by Everson when the total was six. Some stylish cricket between Gordon Phillips and W. E. C. Hudden followed. They are former Monmouthshire players, and they had not forgotten the art. The score was carried to 36 when Hudden was caught by Fairclough off Rocyn Jones.

There was another lively passage when Tom Blandford joined Gordon Phillips. At the fall of the fifth wicket for 61 there came an interlude.

Major J. E. C. Partridge was brought out on a wheel-barrow and lifted to the wicket. He wore an enormous beige top hat.

But once at the wicket there were no signs of gout. When a stinger came down he dropped his bat and made a move to say "something" to the bowler. On reflection he let it pass.

BOWLED A GOLF BALL

A little later he hit his wicket and so ended his innings. Just before that Eric Boughton sent him up a golf ball.

Next came Reggie Plummer. Diplomatic as usual, he greeted Tom Blandford, his partner, with a cordial handshake; and then had something to say to Umpire Rowlands. His innings opened leisurely, but he showed that he was still good enough for a sprint between the stumps.

At 82 Tom Blandford misjudged a ball from Bryn Davies which took his wicket. Plummer was then joined by Archie Williams, of Pontypool, the old Newport wicket-keeper, and they made a lively pace.

Just before the innings closed the Mayor made a second appearance. This time it was with a jug of beer, which was handed round in tots.

The innings closed for 95. Eric Boughton made a very good start for Newport, but his first three partners were not with him long. The third wicket fell at 20, and the fifth at 34.

W. A. Everson and H. H. Jenkins resisted every bowler of the opposition—the whole team tried to displace them—to put on 46 for the seventh wicket, which fell at 82.

With six runs added, Everson was bowled by Wreford, but Newport won before the ninth wicket fell.

DEADLY BOWLING BY OTTER

NEWPORT THURSDAYS LOSE AT PONTYPOOL

Some fine bowling by Otter, the Pontypool professional, enabled Pontypool Thursdays cricket team to defeat Newport Thursdays, at Pontypool Park, by seven wickets.

Otter's analysis was 6 for 39, and Newport could only muster 78. All but one failed to reach double figures. Out of the Newport total, C Pullin was responsible for 46. He was not long at the wicket, but during his innings he hit six fours. Pullin saved Newport from disaster, for when he began his innings the score was 3 for 11. He and C. W. Kingston brought the score to 52 before they were parted.

Preston and Marshall gave Pontypool a steady start, and Newport's score was passed when three wickets had fallen. Marshall not out 29, and C. J. Lloyd 27, were the chief scorers. The scores were:

LEAGUE GAMES

Swansea Collapse at Briton Ferry

Briton Ferry Town entertained Swansea in a League game on Thursday and won by six wickets.

Swansea shaped very badly and were all out in an hour and a half for 56 runs. The bowling of W. Bowen, a second team player, was remarkable, and he took five wickets for only 10 runs.

Briton Ferry Town passed the visitors' total for the loss of only four wickets. Scores:—

CLUB AND GROUND WIN

Dyson's Quick Scoring at Newbridge

Glamorgan Club and Ground had little difficulty in beating Newbridge, at Newbridge, although the home side gave a good display, particularly in the field.

Glamorgan, who batted first, obtained runs freely. Dyson in particular batting briskly and confidently. He hit up a brilliant century, which included six 6's and seven 4's, he took only one hour 25 minutes over his innings.

When Newbridge replied to the visitors' big score they found the attack deadly. Davies (D.) returned the fine bowling analysis of five wickets for 14 runs. Scores:—

GLAMORGAN COLTS

English Public Schools Defeated by 87 Runs

Glamorgan County Colts defeated the English Public Schools by 87 runs in their game at Cardiff Arms Park on Friday.

Batting first the County Colts were given a splendid start by W. E. Harris and L. W. Owen, a partnership which obtained 95 runs in an hour. The Colts declared when their total reached 169 for the loss of six wickets, and then the Public Schools, playing 12 members, were dismissed for 82 runs.

P. D. Turnbull, the brother of Maurice Turnbull, the Glamorgan skipper, was the only batsman to show any real resistance, and he pulled and hooked splendidly on the leg side to get 30. W. J. Thomas, St. Mellon's, who played for the Glamorgan Colts, was clean bowled by Leech's first ball. Scores:—

GLAMORGAN'S TEAM

Two Changes for Game With Leicestershire

By "NOMAD"

Glamorgan, in the throes of team re-organisation, have sprung a surprise by omitting Duckfield and Lavis from the side to meet Leicestershire to-day.

This will be the first game Duckfield has missed this season.

In their places Glamorgan are bringing in E. C. Jones, the Elba all-rounder, who will probably join the staff, and F. Roberts, of Pontardawe.

Glamorgan's team will be:—M. J. Turnbull, W. D. Hughes, E. C. Jones, F. Roberts, Dyson, Davies (E.), Davies (D.), Smart, Brierley, Davies (A.), and Mercer.
